Who is my neighbor? Anon

Why sing to him? it is he whom I love

Cast from earth and sleep

When nothing but a burning brow

His smiling hand may keep

By my side, as the fainting poor

Whose spirit is not in them

When hunger sends for aid

To him and his sweet child

Oh neighbor! what can I do

When you are at their side

Do not see, do not hear, do not know

Do not know what I do

Why sing to him? it is the heart that sings

By every earthly grave

When you are at their side

Do not see, do not hear, do not know

Why sing to him? it is the heart that sings

By every earthly grave

When you are at their side

Do not see, do not hear, do not know

Present
The Negro's Complaint. in a new Version

Forced from home and all its pleasures,
Africa's coast I left forlorn,
To increase a stranger's treasures,
O'er the raging billows borne;
Men from England, bought and sold me,
Paid my price in paltry gold;
But, though theirs they have enrolled me,
Bonds are never to be sold.

Still in thought as free as ever,
What are Englands rights I ask,
Be from my delights to sever,
Be to torture, me to task?
Flow'ry locks and black complexion,
Cannot forfeit Natures claim;
Skins may differ, but affections
Dwell in black and white the same.

Why did all creating nature,
Make the plant for which we toil?
Sighs must fan it tears must water,
Sweat of ours must dress the soil.
Think ye masters, iron hearted,
Solling at your jovial boards,

Selected

By our sufferings, since you brought us
To the man-degrading mart,
All sustain'd by patience, taught us
Only by a broken heart:

Chorus

Deem our nation brutes no longer,
Till some reason you shall find,
Worthier of regards, and stronger.

Than the colour of our kind.
Slaves of gold! whose sordid dealings
Tarnish all your boasted powers,
Prove that you have human feelings,
Ere you proudly question ours:
